Plaintiff,	§
v.	§	HARRIS COUNTY, TEXAS
State Farm Lloyds,	§
Defendant.	§	_____ JUDICIAL DISTRICT

PLAINTIFF'S ORIGINAL PETITION

Test Masters Educational Services, Inc. ("TMES") files this Original Petition against State Farm Lloyds ("State Farm") and request the Court to declare that State Farm owes a contractual duty to defend TMES in an underlying lawsuit.

DISCOVERY CONTROL PLAN

1. Due to the nature of this dispute, discovery is currently unnecessary. However, to the extent discovery is conducted at all, it should be very narrowly tailored under Level Three in accordance with Rule 190.4 of the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure.

PARTIES

2. TMES is a Texas corporation with its principal place of business at 13100 Southwest Freeway, Sugar Land, Texas.

3. State Farm may be served with process by serving a copy of this Petition and Citation to State Farm's registered agent for service of process—Fred J. Marsh at 17301 Preston Road, Dallas, Texas, 75252-5727.

VENUE

4. Venue is proper in Harris County, Texas under Section 15.002(a)(1) of the Texas Civil Practice and Remedies Code.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

5. TMES is in the business of providing professional test preparation services in connection with a variety of standardized exams. TMES purchased a “State Farm Business Liability Insurance Policy” (Policy Number 90-J7-6207) (“Policy”), which was in effect from February 22, 2001 through at least February 22, 2009. TMES diligently paid all premiums when due.

6. Under Section II of the Policy, State Farm contracted that it “will pay those sums that the insured becomes legally obligated to pay as damages because of...personal injury or advertising injury to which this insurance applies.”¹ State Farm defined “personal injury” and “advertising injury” as including “oral or written publication of material that...disparages a[n]...organization’s goods, products or services.” State Farm also defined “advertising injury” as including “misappropriation of advertising ideas or style of doing business,” and “infringement of copyright, title or slogan.” These definitions were included in the State Farm Policy that incepted in 2001, as well as the successive renewals that were in effect through February 2007. Beginning on February 22, 2007, State Farm modified the definition of “advertising injury” in part. The phrases “misappropriation of advertising ideas or style of doing business” and “infringement of copyright, title or slogan,” were replaced with “the use of another’s advertising idea in your advertisement” and “infringing upon another’s copyright, trade dress or slogan in your advertisement.” In each Policy, State Farm contractually agreed that it “will have the ...duty to defend any claim or suit seeking damages payable under this policy even though the allegations of the suit may be groundless, false or fraudulent.”

¹ The Policy states that it applies to, among other things, “personal injury caused by an occurrence committed in the coverage territory during the policy period,” and to “advertising injury caused by an occurrence committed in the coverage territory during the policy period.”

7. In August 2008, Robin Singh Educational Services, Inc. and Robin Singh (collectively "Singh"), an extremely litigious California-based competitor, asserted claims against TMES in Test Masters Educational Services, Inc. v. Robin Singh Educational Services, Inc., Civil Action No. 4:11-cv-02035 (Consolidated with No. 4:08-cv-01771); United States District Court for the Southern District of Texas, Houston Division ("Underlying Lawsuit"). Among other things, Singh accused TMES of copying Singh's website and using it in a manner that disparaged Singh's reputation and goodwill.

8. In accordance with the notice provisions of the Policy, TMES tendered Singh's counterclaim in the Underlying Lawsuit to State Farm and requested a defense under the Policies. State Farm acknowledged that it would "pay those sums that the insured becomes legally obligated to pay as damages because of...personal injury or advertising injury..." Since the trial court stayed the Underlying Lawsuit pending the outcome of proceedings before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board ("TTAB") of the United States Patent & Trademark Office, State Farm assured TMES that "[i]f the stay is lifted, we agree to pay for the defense of the counterclaim only..."

9. When the proceedings before the TTAB concluded, the trial court lifted the stay. Singh filed an amended counterclaim against TMES in which it added a discussion of the TTAB proceedings. When TMES tendered the amended counterclaim to its insurer, State Farm again confirmed that it would defend TMES. Thereafter, State Farm provided a defense for approximately eight months. Then, on February 20, 2012, State Farm suddenly withdrew the defense.

10. Relying on documents extrinsic to Singh's amended counterclaim, including, in State Farm's words, Singh's "answer to the appeal by [TMES] of the TTAB Ruling," allegations

“in prior litigation between the parties,” and the TTAB’s “opinion,” State Farm claimed that the matter it once deemed to be covered was not. State Farm failed to identify any “new” factual allegations in, or any omission of factual allegations from, the amended counterclaim that could affect its original determination that it owes TMES a defense. State Farm’s letter demonstrates that it changed its coverage decision due to its erroneous interpretation of the TTAB’s ruling or its review of documents extrinsic to the counterclaim, which is a violation of the applicable complaint allegations rule.

CAUSE OF ACTION

11. Pursuant to Chapter 37 of the Texas Civil Practice and Remedies Code, TMES requests this Court to declare that Singh’s amended counterclaims trigger State Farm’s duty to defend under the eight-corners rule because it includes allegations that TMES caused personal injury and advertising injury, as State Farm defined those terms in its Policies; that none of the Policies’ exclusions apply; and that State Farm’s proffered explanation for withdrawing its defense is invalid.

PRAYER

Test Masters Educations Services, Inc. requests this Court to enter a declaratory judgment in its favor pursuant to Chapter 37 of the Texas Civil Practice and Remedies Code, including an award of its costs and attorneys’ fees incurred in bringing this action, as well as any and all other general relief to which it is entitled.

Respectfully submitted

TEST MASTERS EDUCATIONAL	§	IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF
SYSTEM, INC.	§
V.	§	HARRIS COUNTY, T E X A S
STATE FARM LLOYDS	§	215TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

DEFENDANT'S SPECIAL EXCEPTIONS

TO THE HONORABLE COURT:

State Farm Lloyds ("State Farm"), defendant, specially excepts to Plaintiff's Original Petition for its failure to identify the damages at issue, and asks that plaintiff be required to re-plead in order to state the amount of already-incurred legal expense put at issue by, and inherent in, its claim for declaratory relief that defendant owes such legal expense.

THE REQUESTED DECLARATORY RELIEF HAS A PRICE TAG ATTACHED

1. Plaintiff alleges State Farm withdrew from its defense in the underlying lawsuit on February 20, 2012, says such withdrawal was in error, and seeks a declaratory judgment that State Farm has a duty to defend Test Masters against the amended counterclaim of its opponent, Robin Singh Educational Services, Inc. ("RSES"), in the underlying lawsuit (C.A. 4:11-cv-02035) pending in U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas, Houston Division.

2. State Farm is entitled to know, and have plaintiff plead, the amount in controversy in this lawsuit. That includes, at a minimum, the amount of legal expense (billed and work-in-process, paid or unpaid) that has already been incurred by Test Masters since State Farm withdrew from its defense. Knowing the amount in controversy is a fundamental part of any defendant's evaluation of its lawsuit exposure, and it is relevant (indeed, essential) to a decision whether to file a notice of removal to U.S. District Court. Testmasters cannot thwart a defendant's legitimate exercise of its legal rights by pretending that facts fundamental to a defense and jurisdiction are not in issue.

AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY IS WELL-KNOWN TO TEST MASTERS

3. As Test Masters notes, its litigation opponent (RSES) is "an extremely litigious California-based competitor." (Petition, ¶7). A review (on the U.S. District Clerk's PACER system) of filings with the court in the RSES vs. Test Masters lawsuit indicates that it has been very active. (See attached printout of lawsuit activities from PACER). It seems clear a significant sum is put at issue by the declaratory relief sought. That is because declaratory judgment in favor of Test Masters would immediately be followed by an amended pleading asking for an award against State Farm of the legal expense that is the subject of the declaratory relief (all expense incurred by Test Masters in the lawsuit since State Farm withdrew from its defense in February, 2012).

4. Declaratory judgment in favor of Test Masters (that State Farm had and breached a duty to defend) would certainly lead to an amended pleading for a money judgment for Test Masters, which would follow upon proof of its reasonable and necessary legal expense. Test Masters certainly knows, and can easily ask its lawyers to confirm, the amount of legal expense it has incurred in the underlying lawsuit since State Farm ceased paying its legal expense in that lawsuit.

5. There is only one scenario in which the incurred legal expense would be irrelevant. Test Masters would have to be the first successful insured claimant in the history of the courthouse to obtain its requested declaratory relief and then tell the court: "No, this was just a lawsuit about the principle—We're not asking for payment of the legal expense the court has just said State Farm owes." Unless Test Masters says it is engaged in such a pointless exercise (in which event State Farm will accept a stipulation), the legal expense it has incurred in the underlying lawsuit constitutes the damages put at issue by its declaratory relief claim. It therefore should be pled.

6. Defendant therefore asks that Test Masters be required to allege its existing damages: the amount of all legal expense it has incurred in the underlying lawsuit (billed and work-in-process, paid and unpaid) since State Farm withdrew from its defense in that lawsuit.

CONCLUSION

State Farm therefore prays that the court sustain these special exceptions ordering that plaintiff re-plead to state the amount of damages (legal expense it has incurred to date in the underlying lawsuit) so that defendant can properly evaluate the lawsuit and its options for a defense.

Respectfully submitted,
